

DRISCOLL BESTED AMERICAN "CHAMP"

No Decision Was Given, but Englishman Showed Up Better.

EVEN MONEY AT RINGSIDE

Driscoll Had Better of Six Rounds and One Was Even.

NEW YORK, February 19.—Abe Attell, champion featherweight of the United States, met John Driscoll, champion featherweight of England, here to-night before the Ringside National Athletic Club in a ten-round bout. They weighed in at 124.

Although no decision was given by the referee, the honors of the contest were won by Driscoll. It being the opinion of the majority of the members that he was entitled to the honors. The second, sixth and seventh rounds were Attell's, and in the eighth the honors were even, while all the others went to Driscoll.

Referee Was Even.
Just before the fighters entered the ring the betting went to even. Attell's records were Charlie Slegler, Al Lippe, Al McMurray and Jimmy DeForest. While Jimmy Johnson, Charlie Harvey and Boya Driscoll looked after the Englishman.

Attell wore light bandages on his hands, as did Driscoll also. Attell was first to enter the ring, being followed shortly by Driscoll. Charlie White was referee. At the beginning of the tenth round both men were strong.

Fight and Clinch.
It was one of the fastest and cleverest bouts ever seen in this city. Both men are very quick, but Attell seemed to have more steam behind his blows. Driscoll's left jab was frequent, and he landed them in one-two and one-two-three fashion on Abe's face, raising a lump over Attell's right eye in the fifth round.

At 15-fighting the American proved the better, sending in some hard body punches, which staggered the British boxer. In the sixth round Attell landed a hard swinging left on the head, which sent Driscoll staggering to the ropes. In the seventh Attell reached the face and stomach with telling effect, but Driscoll was willing to mix things up, and landed some hard blows over the kidneys. A short right just over the heart made Driscoll look weary as he went to his corner at the end of the round.

Honors were even in the eighth, with both men looking as though they could continue for another hour.

In the ninth and tenth rounds Driscoll had the advantage in the number of blows exchanged.
